Stamp collecting is the collecting of postage stamps and related objects, such as envelopes or packages with stamps on them. It is one of the world’s most popular hobbies, with estimates of the number of collectors ranging up to 20 million in the United States alone.

Many casual collectors enjoy accumulating stamps without worrying about the tiny details, but the creation of a large or comprehensive collection generally requires some philatelic knowledge. This is especially important for those who intend to spend large amounts for stamps.

Stamp collectors are an important source of revenue for some small countries that create limited runs of elaborate stamps designed mainly to be bought by stamp collectors. The stamps produced by these countries far exceed the postal needs of the countries. Some collectors, observing the generally rising prices of rare stamps, have taken to Philatelic Investment.

Rare stamps are among the most portable of tangible investments, and are easy to store. They offer an attractive alternative to art, other collectible investments, and precious metals.

Reading comprehension: Choose the correct answer.

In 1957, Russia launched a small metal ball, Sputnik, into space. As it circled the Earth, it did nothing but send a simple radio message back to Earth. That message, however, was enough to frighten the Americans badly. The Russians were winning the space race. But what was the space race? Very simply, it was a race to see which country could get into space first. Both Russia and the United States wanted to win very much. With Sputnik, Russia won the first part of the race, but the next stage, putting a man into space, was far more important to both countries.

The American program to put a man into space was the Mercury program. The Americans chose Alan Shepard, a Navy test pilot, to be their first astronaut. They called his mission Mercury Freedom 7. Shepard went through months of training for his mission.

Meanwhile, the engineers and scientists tested every part of his spaceship to make sure it was safe. Finally, in 1961, after the Americans safely sent a monkey into space, they were ready to send Shepard. In the last week of February, Shepard's Redstone rocket was on the launch pad, but a last minute problem meant that they could not launch. They rescheduled the launch for May 5. Then on April 12, the Americans received terrible news. Yuri Gagarin, a Russian, was in space. The Russians had beaten the Americans again.

Question 16. According to paragraph 1, the term space race is best explained as _____.

- A. the race to build the fastest rocket
B. the race to get into space first
C. the race to reach the moon first

- A. The Russians
B. The Americans
C. The Navy
D. The Mercury program

Question 18. According to paragraph 3, why did the Americans lose the second part of the space race?

- A. They could not build a rocket as fast as the Russians.
B. Their program was unsafe.
C. A problem forced them to reschedule their launch.
D. Their monkey died.

Question 19. According to the passage, when did the first human go into space?

- A. In 1957.
B. In February 1961.
C. On April 12, 1961.
D. On May 5, 1961.

Question 20. The word rescheduled in the passage is closest in meaning to _____.

I'm interested in sports, especially athletics, and I run seven or eight kilometres every day. I particularly enjoy cross-country running, where you have to run across fields, jump over streams and so on. While I'm running, I think about all sorts of things, and at the end of a run I'm sometimes surprised to find that I've managed to solve a problem that was on my mind.

Next year I'm going to try the London Marathon. It's a long, hard race-26 miles or 42 kilometers – and you have to be tough to finish, but I very much want to do it. I worry a bit about getting old, and I'd like to prove to myself that I'm still almost as fit as I was twenty years ago.

I'm interested in mountaineering as well as running. I'll never become an expert climber, but I know what I'm doing in the mountains. I successfully completed a course in snow and ice climbing when I was younger; and I've done a series of easy climbs in the Alps during the last few years. My wife doesn't share my interest in mountains. She agreed to go climbing with me once, but she found that she felt ill as soon as she got above 1,000 meters.

Question 9 If you do cross-country running, you must _____.
A. cross your country
B. run along the coast
C. cross your countryside
D. cross fields, streams, etc.

A. it helps to keep him fit
B. he wants to do it before getting old
C. the reward is great
D. it helps him solve his problems

Question 12 The writer takes up mountaineering because _____.
A. he wants to become an expert climber
B. he simply likes it
C. his wife is interested in it
D. it is easy to practice
